

Long Term Condition Nurse with Respiratory skills

We are seeking to employ an enthusiastic Long Term Condition Nurse with Respiratory skills to work within The Adam Practice to provide routine care management of patients with COPD and Asthma. This post will be primarily based at our Upton surgery, however, there will be opportunity to work at our other sites, as per practice needs.

The successful candidate will be able to deliver a high standard of patient care by providing holistic assessment and clinical care management within dedicated respiratory clinics in line with national and local guidance. The candidate will be supported by our Respiratory Lead Nurse, GPs and Nurse Manager.

As a practice that provides both GP and Student Nurse training placements, we are committed to supporting training opportunities. Respiratory experience is essential and Primary care experience is desirable; however, for the right candidate we would be able to support further development/ induction into primary care.

Excellent communication skills and a reliable, professional attitude are also essential. Fundamental to the role is a willingness to support colleagues and if required, offer flexibility to work across sites.

Salary is dependent on current experience/ qualification and will be in-line with our internal pay/skills matrix.

Hours – 16 per week, days are flexible but dependant on availability of clinic rooms.
